medicine academic physicists supporting clinical operations at multiple University of Colorado Health hospitals in the Denver metro area and at Children’s Hospital of Colorado. The candidate would be providing clinical support for MRI. The position also includes teaching, research, and leadership opportunities.

This is a terrific opportunity to join a highly collaborative section and department at the Anschutz Medical Campus in the Denver metro area.

Duties
The Radiological Sciences section has a strong regional and national reputation and it currently composed of eight diagnostic and nuclear medicine medical physicists. Our members have diverse clinical and research interests and are nationally recognized experts in multiple subspecialty areas of medical physics. The section supports clinical activities at both general and pediatric hospitals. We provide physics education for Radiology Residents and for undergraduate and graduate students through a partnership with the University of Colorado Department of Biomedical Engineering. We are involved in various research activities across the medical campus, including the PET/MRI scanner at the CU Research Imaging Center. All section members hold faculty appointments at the University of Colorado School of Medicine.

Work Location: This role is expected to work onsite and is located in Aurora, CO.
